Boat-sharing club Sailing In Dublin (SID) has a new addition to its fleet of keelboats and dinghies, with a First 31.7 now available for use by members and guest sailors, writes Nick Miller.

Mayfly was bought by the Dun Laoghaire club earlier this year and is being used for day sails, short cruises and racing.

Dublin has a large and growing fleet of First 31.7s and Mayfly is already a hit with SID's members.

They have been familiarising themselves with the boat over the summer, including cruises to Wicklow and Carlingford, and it was entered in the Dun Laoghaire Regatta.

Mayfly is currently available to members and guests for day sails and short cruises, and will be entered in the Turkey Shoot later this year. It replaces the club's Sigma 33, Obsession, which provided many years of racing and cruising.

Sailing In Dublin is a unique club which offers members unlimited use of its dinghies and keelboats for a small annual membership fee.

The focus is on being friendly, affordable and open to all. Members can take part in day sails or longer cruises — and can helm, crew and race — in dinghies or keelboats.

Membership has also been slashed to a new rate of €200 to the end of March 2020.

We've got a favour to ask

More people are reading Afloat.ie than ever thanks to the power of the internet but we're in stormy seas because advertising revenues across the media are falling fast. Unlike many news sites, we haven't put up a paywall because we want to keep our marine journalism open.

Afloat.ie is Ireland's only full-time marine journalism team and it takes time, money and hard work to produce our content.

So you can see why we need to ask for your help.

If everyone chipped in, we can enhance our coverage and our future would be more secure. You can help us through a small donation. Thank you.
